

SAVE TOLL BRIDGE THROUGH PAINTING OF STRUCTURE

Both Iron and Woodwork Sadly Deteriorating From Paint Lack.

The commissioners could save considerable money, prolong the life of the bridge crossing the St. Johns river, and safeguard the lives of those crossing the structure after dark by painting both the iron work as well as the hand railings.

Several years have passed since the structure was painted, and even at that time there was not the proper material used in the work. There is a special paint, made expressly for iron and steel structures, which preserves the material in a wonderful manner, and to use other paints, or wear paints, upon such work is wasteful.

The loss incurred by failing to keep such structures properly painted is recognized by everyone. In Duval county experts figure that because of the tying up in the courts of a three thousand-dollar bridge-painting contract for three years there has been a loss of more than twenty thousand dollars by deterioration of the material used in the bridges of that county.

At the present time there are a few coats of paint at various points on the bridge, but these merely add proof that the entire bridge should be treated in the same manner. No bit of iron or steel should be passed over when the paint is applied if the longevity of the structure is to be considered; nor should there be used any paint except that which is manufactured for the express purpose of protecting and preserving the material.

As a safeguard for the automobile traffic when the bridge proper is being improved the railings upon both sides of the bridge for its entire length should be painted white. It is practically impossible for drivers on many dark nights to feel safe and secure, because of the fact that the railings in their present condition cannot be easily seen. Many "close calls" have been reported when only by very rapid work was the wheel shifted to prevent scraping the railings. Especially is this made emphatic in passing a car where there are being carried bright, or even semi-bright, lights. With the railings painted white there would be a great element of danger eliminated, as the width of the bridge could be easily determined no matter how dark the night.

It is understood that the commissioners have had under consideration for some time the painting of the entire structure. If this rumor is correct there should be longer no delay in the matter, and at the same time the railings should be treated in a way that will both prolong their life and aid the patrons of the bridge. It is possible the matter may come before the commissioners at their regular meeting on Monday; in which case no doubt immediate action will be taken.

THANKSGIVING PARTY The Intermediate Baptist Young People's Union enjoyed a most pleasing Thanksgiving party Friday evening, when a delicious supper was prepared with all the dainties customary for the occasion by Mrs. George F. Schramm. There were games and prize contests throughout the evening, and the adjournment was made to the tune of "Three cheers for Mrs. Schramm."

Glorious Gowns Worn By Gloria Swanson Monday

Gloria Swanson, Paramount star, whose beautiful gowns worn in her screen productions have made her the fashion model of the screen, is not limited to stately, formal fashion creations in her latest Paramount picture, "Her Gilded Gage," which will be the big feature at the Grand Monday and Tuesday.

Miss Swanson first appears in this story as a poor French dancer, later in the modestly colorful costumes of a cafe entertainer, and then blossoms forth, under the guidance of an American press agent, as "Fleur d'Armour," the dance sensation of the season.

It is asserted, by those who saw Gloria wearing the new dance costumes about the studio, that if she is fascinating and charming in the ball room gown, evening gown and afternoon frock, those adjectives fail to describe her in the new theatrical costumes, in which she is beautiful and alluring.

These creations are gorgeously bizarre and theatrical. One in particular, is an exquisite combination of pink silk tights, silver cloth and pearl beads, set off by a head dress of clusters of many colored bird of paradise feathers. A stuffed bird of paradise with long graceful, plumage adorns her wrist, and adds a novel effect to the terpsichore performance. This costume is symbolical of the bird of paradise.

Three Sessions Of Importance Hold Next Week

The county commissioners will meet in regular monthly session on Monday—and at the same time will be held the December meeting of the county board of education. On Tuesday evening will be held the first December session of the city council.

There are important matters to be considered at each of these meetings.

Pure Ice vs. Poor Ice

There is something to consider in quality of ICE as well as in any other merchandise. We make ICE from distilled water. We deliver it clean and pure.

Sanitation an Item

It costs money to keep an ice factory sanitary. It takes time and labor. We spend both of these. ICE is a fast growing commodity in the daily life for preserving foods and for cooling water, tea and milk. Be sure it is pure. Ours is pure. We want you to know how we make it and see the surroundings. Its an item in manufacture.
